It is this spirit that has given us life and has fostered our growth. Hardy Chrysanthemums

We can't stress too strongly the importance of the hardy Mums to all of us in horticulture now. The emergency limits the care and culture that we can afford our plants. Hardy Mums respond beautifully to the most casual attention. In flower they are literally ablaze with glory. No where can we create a more breath-taking appeal for public view than in a substantial planting of Mums. The extensive period for merchandising, and the endless variety of ways in which this can be done make planting now the only limit to fall profit possibility.

ABOUT THE VARIETIES

Out of hundreds of varieties tried each year this list is made up of the cream of the crop as it has actually been seen in performance here. Flowering form and period, growth characteristics such as floriferousness, symmetry, strength and foliage, are all carefully considered. The composite of all features rating excellent earns for the variety a place in this list. All element of your risk is removed. We can say definitely that you can't buy one that will not be a practical productive and profitable item in your planting.

ABOUT THE POT PLANTS

Potted Mums are a special matter. These offered are technically handled throughout their entire growing period in our greenhouses. First banded, then cut back time after time; yours are literally bursting with lush, soft breaks that grow on to produce the final plant of perfection at its maturity with you. Don't hesitate to plant them spaced 18" to 3' apart for cut flowers or specimen plant sales, or to pot them in sixes and eights for counter sales with little attention other than letting them grow as they have a will to do.
